

magmaOffenburg Drop-in Strategy

---

In the Drop-In Challenge, magmaOffenburg uses a similar strategy as during normal games.

Active Positioning

If the player is closest to the ball, not considering fallen players, it approaches the ball. If time allows, it will pass the ball to a teammate if one is free and in a suitable direction with respect to the generally desired play direction. It will try a goal kick, if close enough to the goal or a kick to the side if in defense. Otherwise we dribble.

Passive Positioning

Players not heading to the ball have a set of roles they can take over. Roles are prioritized and a player will take over the role with highest priority that is currently not covered by the positions of other players. The priorities have been changed compared to normal game play to prefer defensive positions.
