CONCLUSIONS

- High-performance libraries and code generators should coexist, interoperate, and compose
- IR instrastructure like MLIR can unify both approaches
- Infrastructure for analaysis and transformation can be reused across domains
- Deabstraction should be progressive — input and output of passes/utilities should be easy to represent and transform